Industrial Scientific Launches New Website

Leading provider of gas detection equipment and connected safety solutions introduces updated website.

PITTSBURGH, PA – 16 April 2019 – Industrial Scientific, the global leader in gas detection, is pleased to announce the launch of its new corporate website. The new website features numerous updates to improve user experience including faster load times, a mobile-first design, full product catalog search, and robust quote building functionality. Available in English, Spanish, French, German, and Portuguese, the new site offers enhanced browsing and content for global audiences.

In addition to usability upgrades, the site offers new content to help customers understand the gas hazards within industrial applications as well as a full library of training videos and blog content to answer common gas detection questions.

“The emphasis of the new site is on helping customers solve challenges in productivity, safety, and health,” said Justin McElhattan, president of Industrial Scientific. “Not only is it easier to find or build the product you’re looking for, it’s easier to access critical safety information.”
